W. W. DIMOND'S

Spring exhibitions of art are held the world over—why not silver, glassware or crockery? The advantage in most presents is in the fact that they answer for any season in the year. A Christmas present of cut glass would do as well for a birthday in July. Our goods are seasonal.

Dorflinger's cut glass, the best in the world, because the cuttings are perfect and the designs unique. Best for the purchaser because the price is low. Best for the home because it is useful and decorative.

Our silverware is the same sort you buy of exclusive dealers in silverware. The weight is the same, the designs are the most modern and elegant, and the price is the same as you pay to the dealer in San Francisco. Ours is made by the Whiting Manufacturing Company, and has no superior. The pieces include everything to be found in a silversmith's.

In crockery this is the help-fullest of stores. Make the most of it. Its every day selling is a series of agreeable surprises to China lovers. Genuine French China, Royal Worcester, Crown Derby and Coal Port go to you for what they are worth—nothing better for wedding presents.

Our stock of lamps is the largest and the assortment the best in Honolulu—some for oil and others for electricity.

Mr. W. W. Dimond.

THE COLLEGE BOY'S TALE.

It Was Ingenious, and His Father Considered Him Very Unfortunate.

The boy was home from college for a brief vacation, but he was not alone. Several stories of escapades had preceded him, and they were waiting in his father's private office the first time he and the old gentleman met there.

Of course the boy could explain them without difficulty. There never was a boy who went to college who could not explain anything without difficulty, but there is a wide difference between explaining a thing and convincing a wise old father who has seen a little something of life himself of the truthfulness of the explanation. Any boy who has been at college and come home again can testify to that.

Therefore the old gentleman looked pained when the boy tried to tell him that the size of the item opposite "text-books" in his expense account was occasioned by the fact that for some unaccountable reason they had changed the books in the middle of the term, and that in consequence it had been necessary for him to get a complete new set.

He also looked pained, but continued to hold his peace, when the boy explained that he was not the youth who was arrested for trying to kick the top of a lamp-post off to win a bottle of champagne, and that the mistake was due entirely to the fact that the collars got mixed up in the wash, with the result that a most respectable young fellow who hailed from Denver or some other faraway place was wearing a collar with his name on it that night. Of course the police gave the name on the collar to the reporters.

There were also a few minor explanations of celebrations in which wine was considerably freer than water at a Prohibition banquet, conditions imposed at the latest examinations and trouble that was the outgrowth of "cutting" chapel, and with each artistic story told the weariness of the old gentleman appeared to increase.

"What an unfortunate thing it was for you," he said at last with what seemed to be sincere regret, "that your father was not born a blamed fool!"—Chicago Post.

She Knew.

Uncle Ned—Don't be pert, dear. You know what that is?
Flossie—Oh, it's speaking to grown up people the way they speak to you.—Truth.

His Explanation.

My partner (expected), you see, was humbly but wealthy Miss B. She wrote, "Have caught cold." Poor old girl—getting old. Is that why I love her? Well—until now, the Pells helped me out of the plight with a girl who was "there for the night." Some cousin, I thought, whose dot was a naught—Some cousin or niece (They've a dozen apiece)—I consented with thoughts impolite.

You'll excuse me just here if I swear—That girl had most glorious hair, And eyes of true blue, And her foot in a shoe.

No spirit e'er attempted to wear. But beauty was not in my line. "Twas told that I wanted, in fine, And I acted the bear.

As far as man dare When his partner is poor—Yes, I acted the boor With that rose tinted beauty of mine.

And not till this moment, from you, Faye I learned what would make a saint blue—That I danced that cotillon With a girl worth a million.

And thought that she hadn't a sou. —Tom Hall in New York Sunday World.

A VOICE FROM THE BLEACHERS.

Local interest in the cricket games as reflected from the "bleachers" is increasing. During Saturday's games the "bleachers" were particularly vociferous and kept the players under a running fire of good natured banter. One small boy brought down the crowd by advising the batsman to "go buy a case of Rainier Beer and get some life in you." The crowd applauded the remark, knowing that Rainier Beer is celebrated for its invigorating and strength-giving propensities. On tap or in bottles at the Criterion.

HONOLULU, April 21, 1896.
Mr. C. W. MACFARLANE:—It affords me pleasure to recommend, to any one whose hair is falling out, the use of DR. POTTIE'S HAIR OIL. My hair was coming out at such a rate as led me to believe that I would soon become bald. After using the oil for five weeks this ceased entirely; none whatever is now falling out. I consider it the best and only worthy remedy for this trouble and also recommend it as a stimulant to new growth.
